

April 24, 1862

Oliver Johnson,
A. S. Standard Office,
New York City.

32

Boston, April 24, 1862.

Dear Johnson:

Thanks for your card photograph. It is "very like," and I shall prize it for my collection; but it is not quite equal to your large photographs.

I am wholly disposed to attend your next "Progressive" Meeting at Longwood, and trust nothing will occur to prevent it.

Gerrit Smith and Julien write me that they cannot attend our anniversary.

Mr. May suggests whether you had not better drop a line to Rev. Samuel Aaron, asking him to be one of the speakers. If you think best, do so. Of course, proffer him his expenses.

I think we must have Phillips Tuesday morning and evening. It is not improbable, I think, that he would speak also on Wednesday evening — for a short time at least.

I am sorry and surprised that Mr. Frothingham so under-rates his admirable performances.

By next Standard, you shall be furnished with list of speakers, as far as practicable.

In galloping haste,

Ever truly yours,

W. L. G.

